■ Introduction The lands between the East and West are known as the Lands Between, a world full of adventure and excitement. Enemies have appeared and created chaos, but heroes from across the East and West have appeared and battled them in order to cleanse the Lands Between. On the fantasy action RPG, Tarnished, you will take on the role of the warrior known as a "Elden Lord". Along with the courage of a hero, you will use the power of a "Ring", the most powerful of all weapon, to take on the tremendous battles that await you. ■ World The Lands Between is a world full of adventure and excitement. Throughout the world, there are countless dungeons waiting for you to discover, enemies and monsters lurking about everywhere, and opposing forces waiting to attack you. These all lead to a massive story in which heroes are struggling to cleanse the lands between. An Heroic War Starting from the Land of the Light, you will experience a great war in the Lands Between. The heroic force from the East and West have been struggling against an overwhelming enemy. The battle is exciting because the two sides have different strengths, and your skills will be tested constantly. Online Play Tarnished supports an online element and allows you to play along with other people across the world. To play with others, all you have to do is log on to the "Xeno" system that enables you to visit your friends' houses (called "Poes"). ■ Combat Tarnished provides a variety of battle mechanics that put you in the middle of the action. The weapons you can use change depending on your progression in the game. There are swords, spears, bows, and even magic, all of which are extremely effective against certain enemies. As you progress further, you can increase the "Physical Power" of your character, giving you a bonus to your own attributes and allowing you to attack your enemies more powerfully. This also gives you the ability to master new abilities that will affect your own stats as well. ■ Items Throughout your travels, you will encounter a variety of items called "Rings". Rings are one of the most important items in the game, with each having a unique and impressive effect. As you progress in the game, you will receive Rings that are more powerful than the previous ones, and there are a variety of rings that you can equip to your characters.

The game's story is vague and there are a lot of things that are ambiguous and mysterious. It wasn't difficult to figure things out when it comes to the main characters, but since everything else is contradictory, I couldn't really get a feeling of it. Bugs: I would love for you to do more work on making a more detailed character creation system that can really breathe. Is the game playable? It's okay, but it's a bit long. If I didn't have a bad experience with the previous title, I would probably play this game because of the high fantasy setting and the fact that the story was interesting. But since I did, I couldn't help but feel that I wished the game was completed. I don't think it was a fatal flaw in the game's scenario, but it was just a little thing. Also, I would love for you to do more work on making a more detailed character creation system that can really breathe. Also, I would love for you to do more work on making a more detailed character creation system that can really breathe. It is indeed a bit difficult to understand what is happening in the story. There are so many character names and faces that I got lost about halfway through, so I didn't understand everything that was going on. Since there is a reason for everything that happens in the game, I didn't think it was that difficult to understand what was happening in the story. Of course, there are too many cases where people try to put the blame on others, so everything that happens is a muddled mix of these things. The game's story also has a number of scenes and episodes that I didn't understand, and they also have more than two dimensions. What is IAPDA IAPDA is an industry organization of international corporations engaged in the diamond business. As such, they have committed themselves to raise awareness in the diamond sector about the ethical sourcing of diamonds, and promote the confidence of buying direct from companies engaged in the trade. They play an active role in the diamond business worldwide and it is significant for them that positive associations with the diamond trade become established in their home market in the United Kingdom. From their website: "...IAPDA represents the interests of the world's largest diamond companies in the United Kingdom, Ireland and Europe. We consider it vital that these companies conduct themselves in accordance with the codes of conduct which IAPDA has developed." IAPDA is the diamond industry's longest-established international organization, founded in 1911 and consisting of 27 corporations, each of which is required to have at least one representative on the IAPDA board. Recent developments In January 2018, IAPDA successfully presented the General Ethical Diamond Charter to the World Diamond Council at the World Diamond Council's 12th World Diamond Council, meeting in Antwerp, Belgium. This is a groundbreaking initiative which requires the companies represented by IAPDA to commit themselves to best practice in the diamond sector and the responsible sourcing of diamonds. The diamond industry response to these events was overwhelmingly positive, with the World Diamond Council recognizing IAPDA's charter as an influential milestone in the market. The adoption of this charter by the World Diamond Council, at a time when there are broad discussions underway about a new Kimberley Process Certification Scheme (KPCS), is important for the diamond industry, and represents another positive step towards the introduction of KPCS in the key markets of the diamond industry, including the world
