computer to another. This software is widely used for transferring files and folders. To install, use the packaged installer that will download and install the necessary components from the Internet into a single file called Setup.exe. After the program has been installed, use the Start menu to run it. The program will run and display the main screen. This application is configured for access to the Internet or other network by using the Internet Explorer browser. The program is able to connect to secure as well as unsecure FTP sites. The file you want to transfer is generally selected using a file selection dialog. Click the button to transfer. This button is underlined by default. To cancel the transfer, click the X button in the top-right corner of the dialog window. This application can be useful when you have a computer on a local area network that is not able to access the Internet or you want to transfer files from your home computer to your computer at work. Most important issues: Download speeds can be variable, especially when transferring large files. A transfer can take a very long time. It can take anywhere from a few minutes to hours. If the data is very large and heavy, the download can be rather long. Internet connection speeds are limited. Installation: Download and install the Setup.exe file from the link below. If you are prompted to install other programs or run an installer, please see the documentation that is included on the Setup.exe file. The application can access the Internet and use the Internet for security as well as for downloading items. Enter the following settings in the IP address and port as shown in the screenshot: The connection will look like this: If the connection fails, please make sure that the following settings are correct: The proxy settings are correct and are the same as the proxy settings for Internet Explorer. The firewall on your system must be disabled. If your firewall is enabled, you may need to turn it off for the program to work
