I have table rows where I wanted to fill all the cells with blue color, so I would like to assign a CSS class to them all and then take that class name and apply it to the element. I've tried several methods with no luck, can't figure it out. Below you can find a simplified version of my code. `$('#tr').each(function() {
 $('#td', this).each(function() { this.className = 'whateverClassName';
}); }); td { border: 1px solid red; } test test A: Here you are modifying td elements too: $('#table').on('click', 'td', function() {
 $(this).closest('tr').find('td').addClass('whateverClassName'); }) td {
border: 1px solid red; } .whateverClassName { border: 1px solid blue; } test test`
