Protesters also targeted the Israeli forces in other parts of the West Bank with different measures including burning tires and throwing stones at the vehicles and burning the Israeli army's tanks. On Saturday, the Israeli army violently attacked a peaceful protest in the city of Nablus and wounded several of the protesters. The demonstration was organized by the youth and members of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine-General Command (PFLP-GC). Activists of the PFLP-GC set the Israeli army's compound on fire and demanded the release of prisoners while they held a sit-in during the day. The Israeli army attacked the peaceful rally with clubs and tear gas and used live rounds on the protesters. Israeli troops shot and injured Mohammad al-Hourani, a member of the PFLP-GC, in his right leg and also hit his sister with a tear gas canister in the right eye.
